SNIPER'S CHECKLIST

Four steps, top down. The trade exists only when all four agree.

01 FIND THE LEVEL - WEEKLY

Start on the weekly and mark dynamic support and resistance there — nowhere else. Five tests decide whether a level is worth trading, and the more that hold, the higher its quality. You do not need all five.

✓ Obvious. If you have to hunt for it, it is not a level.

✓ Rejected more than once. Two touches minimum; more is better.

✓ Respected recently. A level last honoured two years ago is history, not structure.

✓ Worked both ways. It has held as support and as resistance.

✓ At an extreme. The highest or lowest price has reached in recent time — a swing high or swing low, not the middle of the range.

02 READ THE PRICE ACTION

At the level — and only at the level — look for one side losing the fight. Read every one of these after the candle closes.

LONG WICKS

Price pushed into the level and was thrown back out.

REPEAT REJECTIONS

Several candles fail at the same price.

MOMENTUM LOSS

Bodies shrink as price approaches. The move is running out.

SHAPE

Triangle, wedge, double bottom, head and shoulders.

RULE · LOCATION BEFORE PATTERN

The same candle means nothing in the middle of the range and a great deal at a weekly level. Location first, pattern second. If step 1 gave you no level, step 2 does not start.

03 WEEKLY AND DAILY MUST AGREE

Name the bias out loud on each time frame, with evidence: higher highs and higher lows, or lower highs and lower lows. Two answers, one question — do they match?

W1 · Weekly

Bullish or bearish. This is the bias every other time frame answers to.

D1 · Daily

Bullish or bearish, read the same way, on its own structure.

Gate

Same on both → drop to 4H.
Different → no trade. Waiting is a position.

04 4-HOUR CONFIRMATION & ENTRY

- 1 Name the 4-hour bias, and check it against the weekly and the daily. Three out of three, or nothing.
- 2 Confirm a price-action pattern from step 2 is sitting at the weekly level, closed.
- 3 Enter on the momentum breakout of that pattern, in the direction all three time frames share.
- 4 Stop beyond the level, targets in R, size set before the order is sent. No new entries 30 minutes either side of a high-impact release.

SIZE · 1R = 1% OF BALANCE

1R is the entry-to-stop distance. Lot per 1,000 of balance at 1% risk — round down, never up.
